FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA :
: Case No. 1:21-cr-00144 (RBW)
v. :
TAMMY A. BRONSBURG, :
Defendant. :

GOVERNMENT'S SENTENCING MEMORANDUM

The United States of America, by and through its attorney, the United States Attorney for the District of Columbia, respectfully submits this sentencing memorandum in connection with the above-captioned matter. For the reasons set forth herein, the government requests that this Court sentence Tammy A. Bronsburg (“Bronzburg”) to 30 days’ incarceration as a condition of 36 months’ probation, 60 hours of community service, and $500 restitution.

I. Introduction

The defendant, Tammy A. Bronzburg, participated in the January 6, 2021 attack on the United States Capitol—a violent attack that forced an interruption of the certification of the 2020 Electoral College vote count, threatened the peaceful transfer of power after the 2020 Presidential election, injured more than one hundred police officers, and resulted in more than 2.7 million dollars in losses.¹

On June 27, 2022, Bronzburg pleaded guilty to one count of violating 40 U.S.C. § 5104(e)(2)(G): Parading, Demonstrating, or Picketing in the Capitol Building. As explained herein, a sentence of 30 days' incarceration as a condition of 36 months' probation, 60 hours of community service, and $500 restitution, is appropriate in this case because: Bronsburg (1) along with Mark Aungst,² entered the Capitol after watching rioters climb the scaffolding, hearing tear gas being deployed and seeing the billows of smoke rise from the Lower West Terrace; (2) entered the Capitol Building twice from the Upper West Terrace being present at that location for three breaches of the various entries; (3) watched and filmed property destruction outside the Capitol, including windows that were shattered and two doors that were breached on the Upper West Terrace; (4) entered and remained in a sensitive area of the Capitol Building, Senate Conference Room S-145, drinking Jack Daniels there with other rioters, despite seeing police in riot gear trying to remove rioters from the building and (5) upon their return to the bus taking them home, both bragged to the other passengers that they had been inside the United States Capitol building.

The Court must also consider that Bronsburg's conduct on January 6, like the conduct of scores of other defendants, took place in the context of a large and violent riot that relied on numbers to overwhelm police, breach the Capitol, and disrupt the proceedings. But for her actions alongside so many others, the riot likely would have failed. See United States v. Matthew Mazzocco, 1:21-cr-00054 (TSC), Tr. 10/4/2021 at 25 ("A mob isn't a mob without the numbers. The people who were committing those violent acts did so because they had the safety of numbers.") (statement of Judge Chutkan). Here, Bronsburg's participation in a riot that actually succeeded in halting the Congressional certification combined with Bronsburg's disregard for the obvious chaos at the Capitol and for officers attempting to remove rioters from the building, her decision to enter the Capitol Building twice (including a sensitive area), and her bragging and lack of remorse immediately following riot render 30 days' incarceration with probation both necessary and appropriate in this case.

² Aungst was jointly charged with Bronsburg in this case. On June 27, 2022, he pleaded guilty before this Court to violating 40 U.S.C. § 5104(e)(2)(G), the same charge to which Bronsburg pleaded guilty. ECF 57 (plea agreement), 59 (statement of offense), and 61 (waiver of trial. On July 27, 2022, this Court granted the government's motion for abatement of prosecution owing to Aungst's death. ECF 65.

II. Factual and Procedural Background

The January 6, 2021 Attack on the Capitol

To avoid exposition, the government refers to the general summary of the attack on the U.S. Capitol. See ECF 60 (Statement of Offense), at 1-3. As this Court knows, a riot cannot occur without rioters, and each rioter's actions – from the most mundane to the most violent – contributed, directly and indirectly, to the violence and destruction of that day. With that backdrop we turn to Bronsburg's conduct and behavior on January 6.

Tammy Bronsburg's Role in the January 6, 2021 Attack on the Capitol

On January 5, 2021, both Aungst and Bronsburg traveled by bus from the Williamsport, Pennsylvania area to Washington, D.C. to attend the “Stop the Steal” rally on January 6th. The bus trip was organized on Facebook by another individual for about 50 people to travel from Pennsylvania to Washington, D.C. The two are pictured below, circled in red:

Both Aungst and Bronsburg knew that Congress was convening at the United States Capitol on January 6, 2021, to certify the vote count of the Electoral College of the 2020 Presidential Election. After the speeches, they marched with hundreds of other people to the Capitol Building. They both took videos and pictures throughout their route³.

The two ended up on the West front, amid thousands of other rioters:

They were present as a mob climbed scaffolding to the Upper West Terrace. They would have observed the northwest stairs being violently breached at approximately 2:09 p.m., after which they paraded up those stairs with a multitude of other rioters.

Once they reached the Upper West Terrace about 2:23 pm, they took a selfie, below, by the Senate Wing Door, having arrived 10 minutes after the first breach and 20 minutes before the second breach of the latter door. They would have also been present when the Upper West Terrace door was first breached at 2:35 p.m.

Aungst and Bronsburg also observed, and Bronsburg filmed, windows by the Senate Wing door being bashed in by a 2x4 amid chants of “USA! USA!”:

Aungst also filmed the closed Senate Wing doors which had windows damaged from the first breach at 2:13 p.m. He also took picture of the broken and shattered windows adjacent to the doors. He and Bronsburg were at the doors approximately 20 minutes before the second breach at 2:43 pm:

At approximately 2:31 pm, Aungst filmed rioters climbing into that open window:

Despite seeing the damage and destruction, and rioters entering the building through a broken window, the two also entered the building. U.S. Capitol Police surveillance footage (CCTV) capture the two walking into the Capitol through the Senate Fire Door near the Parliamentarian's office about 2:46 p.m. This door had been breached only 4 minutes earlier, at 2:42 p.m., while the two were on the Upper West Terrace where that door is located:

Aungst and Bronsburg then left through the same door about 30 seconds later:

Aungst and Bronsburg then remained on the Upper West Terrace, taking pictures and videos, until approximately 3:06 p.m. when they entered a second time, captured on CCTV below:

This time Aungst filmed as they entered the Senate Wing Door:

The two turned to the right, and headed down the hall where Aungst took a picture of Bronsburg:

Aungst and Bronsburg then entered into a sensitive space closed to the public. The room is a conference room designated Senate Room S-145, which is “used for visiting spouses of the U.S. Senators and members of the House of Representatives.” United States v. Sarko, 21-cr-591, Gov’t. Sentencing Memorandum, ECF 31 at 8. There they celebrated their entry into the Capitol with other rioters, drinking from a bottle of Jack Daniels, laughing, and taking selfies, from approximately 3:11 p.m. to 3:14 p.m.:

At around 3:14 p.m., Aungst and Bronsburg left the conference room and the building at the Senate Wing Door upon the orders of police, who had converged upon that door to herd out rioters. Aungst and Bronsburg had been inside the building for about 10 minutes during their second entry:

By 4:03 p.m. the two, who had remained on Capitol grounds after exiting the building, were seeing the full force of the police presence on the Upper West Terrace, as Aungst filmed the scene:

Bronzburg knew she had no authority to be in the Capitol and on restricted grounds and she admitted she had paraded, demonstrated, and picketed within the building. She showed no remorse for entering, as evidenced by her bragging on the bus leaving D.C. about going inside and by posting the video taken inside the Capitol to Facebook.

Tammy Bronzburg's Interview

Tammy Bronzburg spoke with the FBI upon her arrest February 4, 2021. She told the agents she had gone on a bus with others to Washington, D.C. on January 6, 2021 and ultimately entered the Capitol Building there. She went to “peacefully protest” and show support for the former President. Bronzburg said she connected with Aungst during the speeches. She also identified photographs of Aungst and provided the agents with his cell phone number. The two came across a man who saw her sign which read “Pissed off Patriot/Stop the Steal.” The man told them “if you’re that pissed off...go down there toward the Capitol where they’re counting votes.”

After the speech by Trump, she and Aungst marched with other rioters to the Capitol. She observed a person exhibiting the effects of tear gas exposure and said Aungst told her people were trying to get into the U.S. Capitol Building. Bronsburg told the agents she and Aungst climbed the stairs to the upper level by the large scaffolding area. She passed two people who exhibited signs of bleeding and lacerations on her way to the building. She also saw a man smashing windows with a wooden 2x4, and she took video of that occurrence. She and Aungst entered through an open door while police officers were nearby. They went into a room and passed around a bottle of Jack Daniel's whiskey with other rioters. As Bronsburg and Aungst left the building Bronsburg told agents that other rioters were still trying to come in through the breached door. She also then noticed that the windows were broken out.

Bronzburg told agents once back on the bus to go home, she told the other passengers she had done nothing wrong by entering the Capitol, however she regretted that anyone was injured or killed.

The Charges and Plea Agreement

On January 28, 2021, Aungst and Bronsburg were charged by complaint with violating 18 U.S.C. §§ 1752(a)(1) and (2) and 40 U.S.C. §§ 5104(e)(2)(D) and (G). On February 4, 2021, both were arrested in Pennsylvania. On February 22, 2021, they were charged by four-count Information with 18 U.S.C. §§ 1752(a)(1) and (2) and 40 U.S.C. §§ 5104(e)(2)(D) and (G). On February 25, 2022 a superseding Information was filed. On March 11, 2021, a second superseding Information was filed, with the same charges, but removing the reference to the Vice President - elect in counts 3 and 4. On June 27, 2022, Bronsburg each plead guilty to Count Four of the second superseding Information, charging a violation of 40 U.S.C. § 5104(e)(2)(G), Parading, Demonstrating, or Picketing in a Capitol Building. By plea agreement, both agreed to pay $500 each in restitution to the Department of the Treasury/Architect of the Capitol.

III. Statutory Penalties

Bronzburg now faces a sentencing on a single count of 40 U.S.C. § 5104(e)(2)(G). As noted by the plea agreement and the U.S. Probation Office, Bronzburg faces up to six months of imprisonment and a fine of up to $5,000. Bronzburg must also pay restitution under the terms of her plea agreement. See 18 U.S.C. § 3663(a)(3); United States v. Anderson, 545 F.3d 1072, 1078-79 (D.C. Cir. 2008). As this offense is a Class B Misdemeanor, the Sentencing Guidelines do not apply to it. 18 U.S.C. § 3559; U.S.S.G. §1B1.9.

IV. Sentencing Factors Under 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a)

In this misdemeanor case, sentencing is guided by 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a), which identifies the factors a court must consider in formulating the sentence. Some of those factors include: the nature and circumstances of the offense, § 3553(a)(1); the history and characteristics of the defendant, id.; the need for the sentence to reflect the seriousness of the offense and promote respect for the law, § 3553(a)(2)(A); the need for the sentence to afford adequate deterrence, § 3553(a)(2)(B); and the need to avoid unwarranted sentence disparities among defendants with similar records who have been found guilty of similar conduct. § 3553(a)(6). In this case, as described below, all of the Section 3553(a) factors weigh in favor of significant probation with some incarceration as a condition of such probation.

A. The Nature and Circumstances of the Offense

The attack on the U.S. Capitol, on January 6, 2021 is a criminal offense unparalleled in American history. It represented a grave threat to our democratic norms; indeed, it was the one of the only times in our history when the building was literally occupied by hostile participants. By its very nature, the attack defies comparison to other events.

While each defendant should be sentenced based on their individual conduct, as we now discuss, this Court should note that each person who entered the Capitol on January 6 without authorization did so under the most extreme of circumstances. As they entered the Capitol, they would—at a minimum—have crossed through numerous barriers and barricades and heard the throes of a mob. Depending on the timing and location of their approach, they also may have observed extensive fighting with police and smelled chemical irritants in the air. No rioter was a mere tourist that day.

Additionally, while looking at this defendant's individual conduct, we must assess such conduct on a spectrum. This Court, in determining a fair and just sentence on this spectrum, should look to a number of critical factors, to include: (1) whether, when, how the defendant entered the Capitol Building; (2) whether the defendant encouraged violence; (3) whether the defendant encouraged property destruction; (4) the defendant's reactions to acts of violence or destruction; (5) whether during or after the riot, the defendant destroyed evidence; (6) the length of the defendant's time inside of the building, and exactly where the defendant traveled; (7) the defendant's statements in person or on social media; (8) whether the defendant cooperated with, or ignored commands from law enforcement officials; and (9) whether the defendant demonstrated sincere remorse or contrition. While these factors are not exhaustive nor dispositive, they help to place each defendant on a spectrum as to their fair and just punishment.

To be clear, had Bronsburg personally engaged in violence or destruction, she would be facing additional charges and/or penalties associated with that conduct. The absence of violent or destructive acts on Bronburg's part is therefore not a mitigating factor in misdemeanor cases, nor does it meaningfully distinguish her from most other misdemeanor defendants. Bronsburg's lack of violence and property destruction is the only reason she was charged only with, and permitted to plead to, a misdemeanor rather than felony.

Bronsburg went to the January 6, 2021 Stop the Steal rally in Washington D.C. because she believed there was fraud in the presidential election of 2020 and to support the former President. She heard the speeches, knew that Congress was “counting votes,” and went to the Capitol in protest. She observed people being subjected to tear gas, saw police officers throwing tear gas, and watched as rioters breached two doors and broke out windows. Still, she entered the building twice, despite seeing officers in riot gear who were commanding people to leave. For ten minutes she and Aungst partied inside the Capitol, parading down the hall and swigging Jack Daniels inside a private office/conference room. Bronsburg also showed a lack of remorse immediately after the riot, bragging on the bus back home from D.C. about entering the Capitol and admitting to the other passengers that she thought she had done nothing wrong by entering the Capitol, and even posting a video to Facebook of her time in the Capitol. Accordingly, the nature and the circumstances of this offense establish the clear need for a sentence of incarceration combined with a period of probation and supervision in this matter.

B. Bronsburg’s History and Characteristics

As set forth in the Final PSR, ECF 67, at ¶¶ 37-40, Bronsburg’s criminal history consists of a thirty-year-old DUI, two possession of drug paraphernalia arrests in 2016, with one conviction in 2017, and a disorderly conduct conviction in 2020. She is unemployed, receives disability benefits from the federal government (although no documentation has been provided by Bronsburg), and lives with her daughter. Id. at ¶¶ 54, 66-67. She has been compliant while on bond. Id. at ¶ 11. However, her lack of remorse immediately following the riot, despite having personally observed the destructive and lawless behavior of the other rioters, demonstrates a very real need for specific deterrence.

C. The Need for the Sentence Imposed to Reflect the Seriousness of the Offense and Promote Respect for the Law

The attack on the U.S. Capitol building and grounds was an attack on the rule of law. “The violence and destruction of property at the U.S. Capitol on January 6 showed a blatant and appalling disregard for our institutions of government and the orderly administration of the democratic process.”⁴ As with the nature and circumstances of the offense, this factor supports a sentence of incarceration, as it will in most cases, including misdemeanor cases, arising out of the January 6 riot. See United States v. Joshua Bustle and Jessica Bustle, 21-cr-238-TFH, Tr. 08/24/21 at 3 (“As to probation, I don’t think anyone should start off in these cases with any presumption of probation. I think the presumption should be that these offenses were an attack on our democracy and that jail time is usually -- should be expected”) (statement of Judge Hogan).

D. The Need for the Sentence to Afford Adequate Deterrence

Deterrence encompasses two goals: general deterrence, or the need to deter crime generally, and specific deterrence, or the need to protect the public from further crimes by this defendant. 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a)(2) (B-C), United States v. Russell, 600 F.3d 631, 637 (D.C. Cir. 2010).

General Deterrence

The demands of general deterrence weigh in favor of incarceration, as they will for nearly every case arising out of the violent riot at the Capitol. Indeed, general deterrence may be the most compelling reason to impose a sentence of incarceration. For the violence at the Capitol on January 6 was cultivated to interfere, and did interfere, with one of the most important democratic processes we have: the peaceful transfer of power to a newly elected President. As noted by Judge Moss during sentencing, in United States v. Paul Hodgkins, 21-cr-188-RDM:

[D]emocracy requires the cooperation of the governed. When a mob is prepared to attack the Capitol to prevent our elected officials from both parties from performing their constitutional and statutory duty, democracy is in trouble. The damage that [the defendant] and others caused that day goes way beyond the several-hour delay in the certification. It is a damage that will persist in this country for decades.

Tr. at 69-70. Indeed, the attack on the Capitol means “that it will be harder today than it was seven months ago for the United States and our diplomats to convince other nations to pursue democracy. It means that it will be harder for all of us to convince our children and our grandchildren that democracy stands as the immutable foundation of this nation.” Id. at 70; see United States v. Thomas Gallagher, 1:21-CR-00041 Tr. 10/13/2021 at 37 (“As other judges on this court have recognized, democracy requires the cooperation of the citizenry. Protesting in the Capitol, in a manner that delays the certification of the election, throws our entire system of government into disarray, and it undermines the stability of our society. Future would-be rioters must be deterred.”) (statement of Judge Nichols at sentencing).

The gravity of these offenses demands deterrence. This was not a protest. See United States v. Paul Hodgkins, 21-cr-188-RDM, Tr. at 46 (“I don’t think that any plausible argument can be made defending what happened in the Capitol on January 6th as the exercise of First Amendment rights.”) (statement of Judge Moss). And it is important to convey to future potential rioters—especially those who intend to improperly influence the democratic process—that their actions will have consequences. See United States v. Mariposa Castro, 1:21-cr-00299 (RBW), Tr. 2/23/2022 at 41-42 (“But the concern I have is what message did you send to others? Because unfortunately there are a lot of people out here who have the same mindset that existed on January 6th that caused those events to occur. And if people start to get the impression that you can do what happened on January 6th, you can associate yourself with that behavior and that there's no real consequence, then people will say[, “W]hy not do it again[?]”) (statement of Judge Walton). There is possibly no greater factor that this Court must consider.

Specific Deterrence

Tammy Bronsburg believed at the time of her arrest that she had done nothing wrong by going into the Capitol amid the chaos and violence of January 6, 2021. She has since realized she did in fact commit a crime as she stated during her plea colloquy. However, her actions that day demonstrate the need for specific deterrence. She watched and filmed as rioters violently broke out a window with a 2x4 and saw officers inside trying to keep out rioters through another broken window. She entered twice, through two different doors that were breached while she and Aungst were on the Upper West Terrace. And once inside they walked past shattered glass on the floor of the Capitol when they unlawfully entered with a horde of rioters. She knew the police had deployed tear gas, and she ignored the blaring alarm resonating through the Capitol. She and Aungst went into the non-public conference room and passed a bottle of whiskey to celebrate their victory. And when they returned to the bus, they were jubilant over their actions. Bronsburg even posted a video to Facebook from her time in the Capitol Building. These actions all show a specific need for deterrence in the future.

E. The Need to Avoid Unwarranted Sentencing Disparities

As the Court is aware, the government has charged hundreds of individuals for their roles in this one-of-a-kind assault on the Capitol, ranging from unlawful entry misdemeanors, such as in this case, to assault on police officers, to conspiracy to corruptly interfere with Congress.⁵ Each offender must be sentenced based on their individual circumstances, but with the backdrop of the January 6 riot in mind. Moreover, each offender's case will exist on a spectrum that ranges from conduct meriting a probationary sentence to crimes necessitating years of imprisonment. The misdemeanor defendants will generally fall on the lower end of that spectrum, but misdemeanor breaches of the Capitol on January 6, 2021 were not minor crimes. A probationary sentence should not necessarily become the default.⁶ Indeed, the government invites the Court to join Judge Lamberth's admonition that "I don't want to create the impression that probation is the automatic outcome here because it's not going to be." United States v. Anna Morgan-Lloyd, 1:21-cr-00164 (RCL), Tr. 6/23/2021 at 19; see also United States v. Valerie Ehrke, 1:21-cr-00097 (PFF), Tr. 9/17/2021 at 13 ("Judge Lamberth said something to the effect . . . 'I don't want to create the impression that probation is the automatic outcome here, because it's not going to be.' And I agree with that. Judge Hogan said something similar.") (statement of Judge Friedman).

The government and the sentencing courts have drawn meaningful distinctions between offenders. Those who engaged in felonious conduct are generally more dangerous, and thus, treated more severely in terms of their conduct and subsequent punishment. Those who trespassed, but engaged in aggravating factors, merit serious consideration of institutional incarceration. Those who trespassed, but engaged in less serious aggravating factors, deserve a sentence more in line with minor incarceration or home detention.

⁶ Early in this investigation, the Government made a very limited number of plea offers in misdemeanor cases that included an agreement to recommend probation in United States v. Anna Morgan-Lloyd, 1:21-cr-00164(RCL); United States v. Valerie Elaine Ehrke, 1:21-cr-00097(PFF); United States v. Donna Sue Bissey, 1:21-cr-00165(TSC), United States v. Douglas K. Wangler, 1:21-cr-00365(DLF), and United States v. Bruce J. Harrison, 1:21-cr-00365(DLF). The government is abiding by its agreements in those cases, but has made no such agreement in this case. Cf. United States v. Rosales-Gonzales, 801 F.3d 1177, 1183 (9th Cir. 2015) (no unwarranted sentencing disparities under 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a)(6) between defendants who plead guilty under a "fast-track" program and those who do not given the "benefits gained by the government when defendants plead guilty early in criminal proceedings") (citation omitted).

Bronzburg pleaded guilty to Count Four of the Second Superseding Information, charging her with parading, demonstrating and picketing in a Capitol Building, a violation of 40 U.S.C. § 5104(e)(2)(G). This offense is a Class B misdemeanor. 18 U.S.C. § 3559. Certain Class B and C misdemeanors and infractions are “petty offenses,” 18 U.S.C. § 19, to which the Sentencing Guidelines do not apply, U.S.S.G. 1B1.9. The sentencing factors set forth in 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a), including “the need to avoid unwarranted sentence disparities among defendants with similar records who have been found guilty of similar conduct,” 18 U.S.C.A. § 3553(6), do apply, however.

For one thing, although all the other defendants discussed below participated in the Capitol breach on January 6, 2021, many salient differences—such as how a defendant entered the Capitol, how long she remained inside, the nature of any statements she made (on social media or otherwise), whether she destroyed evidence of his participation in the breach, etc.—help explain the differing recommendations and sentences. And as that discussion illustrates, avoiding unwarranted disparities requires the courts to consider not only a defendant’s “records” and “conduct” but other relevant sentencing criteria, such as a defendant’s expression of remorse or cooperation with law enforcement. See United States v. Hemphill, 514 F.3d 1350, 1365 (D.C. Cir. 2008) (no unwarranted disparity regarding lower sentence of codefendant who, unlike defendant, pleaded guilty and cooperated with the government).

Moreover, assessing disparities, and whether they are unwarranted, requires a sufficient pool of comparators. In considering disparity, a judge cannot “consider all of the sentences not yet imposed.” United States v. Godines, 433 F.3d 68, 69–71 (D.C. Cir. 2006). “The most a judge can do is consider those other sentences that do exist,” and “[t]he comparable sentences will be much smaller in the early days of any sentencing regime than in the later.” Id.; see generally United States v. Accardi, 669 F.3d 340, 346 (D.C. Cir. 2012) (“Without more, two allegedly similar cases constitute too small a sample size to support a finding of an ‘unwarranted disparity’ in sentences.”). In cases for which the Sentencing Guidelines apply, “[t]he best way to curtail ‘unwarranted’ disparities is to follow the Guidelines, which are designed to treat similar offenses and offenders similarly.” United States v. Bartlett, 567 F.3d 901, 908 (7th Cir. 2009). See id. (“A sentence within a Guideline range ‘necessarily’ complies with § 3553(a)(6).”). Because the Sentencing Guidelines do not apply here, the sentencing court cannot readily conduct a disparity analysis against a nationwide sample of cases captured by the Sentencing Guidelines.

Even in Guidelines cases, sentencing courts are permitted to consider sentences imposed on co-defendants in assessing disparity. E.g., United States v. Knight, 824 F.3d 1105, 1111 (D.C. Cir. 2016); United States v. Mejia, 597 F.3d 1329, 1343-44 (D.C. Cir. 2010); United States v. Bras, 483 F.3d 103, 114 (D.C. Cir. 2007). The Capitol breach was sui generis: a mass crime with significant distinguishing features, including the historic assault on the seat of legislative branch of federal government, the vast size of the mob, the goal of impeding if not preventing the peaceful transfer of Presidential power, the use of violence by a substantial number of rioters against police officers, and large number of victims. Thus, even though many of the defendants were not charged as conspirators or as codefendants, the sentences handed down for Capitol breach offenses is an appropriate group for purposes of measuring disparity of any future sentence.

As the number of sentences in the Capitol breach misdemeanor cases increase and the pool of comparators grows, the effect on sentences of obviously aggravating considerations should become more apparent. The same is true for obviously mitigating factors, such as a defendant's efforts to prevent assaults on police. Entering the Capitol twice, after watching doors and windows being battered and breached, in connection with their activities in the office/conference room calls for a sentence of incarceration for Bronsburg. While no previously sentenced case contains the same balance of aggravating and mitigating factors present here, the Court should consider the sentences of the defendants discussed below.

Those defendants who observed or filmed violence, or who entered sensitive spaces, like the defendant, are useful in this determination. The government has often recommended, and courts have imposed, sentences of incarceration in these cases. A defendant who went into a sensitive space shows an extra disregard for the people who work in the building and whose lives are disrupted by such behavior. See United States v. Derek Jancart and Erik Rau, 21-cr-148 (JEB) and 21-cr-467 (JEB) (observed violence and inside a sensitive space – 45 days incarceration); United States v. Nichols Perretta, 21-CR-539 (TSC) (observed violence – 30 days incarceration); United States v. Nolan Kidd, 21-cr-429 (CRC) (observed and filmed violence – 45 days incarceration); United States v. John Lolos, 21-cr-243 (APM) (observed violence – 14 days incarceration); United States v. Zachary Wilson, 21-cr-578 (APM) (sensitive space – government recommended 30 days incarceration; Court imposed probation); United States v. Mark Rebegila, 21-CR-283 (APM) (sensitive space – government recommended 60 days incarceration – Court imposed probation); United States v. Oliver Sarko, 21-cr-591(CKK)(sensitive space – 30 days incarceration).

In United States v. Andrew Ericson, 21-CR 506 (TNM), the defendant was inside for about 15 minutes but entered a sensitive space like Bronsburg - the House Speaker's conference room on the second floor. He posted a photo of himself with his feet on the conference table and took a beer from the refrigerator. Judge McFadden imposed 20 days of incarceration on consecutive weekends with 24 months of probation.

In United States v. Brian McCreary, 21-CR-125 (BAH), the defendant pled to 18 U.S.C. §1752(a)(1). Like Bronsburg, he entered the Capitol twice, despite being moved out by police the first time. He was one of the first 30 people to enter the Senate Wing Door during the first breach, and he was part of the mob of rioters who pursued Officer Goodman inside the building. The Court imposed 42 days of incarceration served 14 days at a time, as well as 36 months of probation, two months' home detention and a $2,500.00 fine.

In United States v. Joshua Wagner, 21-CR-310 (ABJ), Wagner pled guilty to violating 40 U.S.C. §5104(e)(2)(G). Like Bronsburg, he too climbed into the Capitol through a broken window. He ignored police orders while in the Crypt and chanted "Our House" and called police "traitors." Judge Jackson imposed a sentence of 30 days of incarceration.

In United States v. Dalton Crase, 21-cr-82 (TJN), Judge Nichols sentenced the defendant to 15 days of intermittent incarceration as a condition of 36 months' probation. Crase, like Bronsburg, had also watched doors being broken into and tear gas deployed.

In United States v. Brandon and Stephanie Miller, 21-cr-266, Judge Chutkan imposed a sentence of 14 days incarceration for Ms. Miller and 20 days for Mr. Miller. Brandon Miller and his wife Stephanie Miller too entered through a broken Senate Wing window. Like Brongsburg, Mr. Miller filmed inside the Capitol. Both showed pride after January 6th of having gone to the Capitol.

The government is aware of the similarly situation case in United States v. Joseph Zlab, 21-CR-389 (RWB), handled by Your Honor. Zlab entered the Capitol for about 13 minutes, similar to the time Aungst and Bronsburg were inside. He left only when police forced him and his fellow rioters out, again like Bronsburg. Like Bronsburg he too was proud of his actions. The government recommended 45 days incarceration followed by 36 months of probation. Your Honor imposed a sentence of 36 months' probation, a $500 fine and 200 hours of community service. However, unlike Zlab, Bronsburg also entered a sensitive space and partied inside the room with other rioters, showing disregard and disrespect for those who worked in that area. This additional factor weighs heavily toward incarceration.

In any event, the goal of minimizing unwarranted sentencing disparities in § 3553(a)(6) is “only one of several factors that must be weighted and balanced,” and the degree of weight is “firmly committed to the discretion of the sentencing judge.” United States v. Coppola, 671 F.3d 220, 254 (2d Cir. 2012). The § 3553(a) factors that this Court assesses are “open-ended,” with the result that “different district courts may have distinct sentencing philosophies and may emphasize and weigh the individual § 3553(a) factors differently; and every sentencing decision involves its own set of facts and circumstances regarding the offense and the offender.” United States v. Gardellini, 545 F.3d 1089, 1093 (D.C. Cir. 2008). “[D]ifferent district courts can and will sentence differently—differently from the Sentencing Guidelines range, differently from the sentence an appellate court might have imposed, and differently from how other district courts might have sentenced that defendant.” Id. at 1095.

V. Conclusion

Sentencing requires the Court to carefully balance the § 3553(a) factors. As explained herein, some of those factors support a sentence of incarceration and some support a more lenient sentence. Balancing these factors, the government recommends that this Court sentence Tammy Bronsburg to 30 days' incarceration as a condition of 36 months' probation, 60 hours of community service and $500 in restitution. Such a sentence protects the community, promotes respect for the law, and deters future crime by imposing restrictions on her liberty as a consequence of her behavior, while recognizing early acceptance of responsibility.

¹Early in this investigation, the Government made a very limited number of plea offers in misdemeanor cases that included an agreement to recommend probation in United States v. Anna Morgan-Lloyd, 1:21-cr-00164(RCL); United States v. Valerie Elaine Ehrke, 1:21-cr-00097(PFF); United States v. Donna Sue Bissey, 1:21-cr-00165(TSC), United States v. Douglas K. Wangler, 1:21-cr-00365(DLF), and United States v. Bruce J. Harrison, 1:21-cr-00365(DLF). The government is abiding by its agreements in those cases, but has made no such agreement in this case. Cf. United States v. Rosales-Gonzales, 801 F.3d 1177, 1183 (9th Cir. 2015) (no unwarranted sentencing disparities under 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a)(6) between defendants who plead guilty under a “fast-track” program and those who do not given the “benefits gained by the government when defendants plead guilty early in criminal proceedings”) (citation omitted).
