Munchel , Case No. 21-3010, 2021 U.S. App. LEXIS 8810 (D.C. Cir. Mar. 26, 2021), see defendant's 16 Emergency Motion for Reconsideration at 16, a decision that the government neither appealed nor sought en banc review, but instead agreed to pretrial release on remand, see Gov't's Withdrawal of Mot. for Detention, and Mot. to Release Defs. on Bond, United States v. Munchel , Criminal Action No. 21-118 (RCL), ECF No. 59, Munchel's application to the instant case by addressing, inter alia , whether defendant's continued pretrial detention can be reconciled with Munchel , which: (1) examined a statutory definition before finding that "at this stage, the evidence sufficiently demonstrates that Munchel's taser is a dangerous weapon under the statute," Munchel at *14 n.5; (2) placed little weight on a defendant's mere possession, without use, of a dangerous weapon while storming the U.S. Capitol in evaluating the district court's conclusion that the defendant posed a danger to the community, id. at *12-13; (3) determined the district court did not demonstrate that it "adequately considered, in light of all the record evidence," whether defendants, who were a part of the mob assault on the Capitol, illegally entered the Capitol, carried weapons onto Capitol grounds, and showed no remorse for their actions, but had limited criminal history, id. at *18, presented "an identified and articulable threat to the community," id. at *18-19; (4) required that any "threat be considered in context," id. at *20, such that the district court must consider "the nature of the threat identified and the resources and capabilities of the defendant" to carry out that threat, id. ; (5) emphasized that defendants "assaulted no one on January 6... did not enter the Capitol by force... [and] vandalized no property" as important considerations for whether defendants "pose a threat of 'using force to promote [their] political ends,'" id. at *21-22; (6) directed the district court to consider whether defendants pose such a threat outside of the specific context "of a large group of people who had gathered at the Capitol in protest that day" on January 6th, 2021, since "the presence of the group was critical to their ability to obstruct the vote and to cause danger to the community," id. at *23-24, and "there was no explanation of how [defendants] would be capable of doing so now that the specific circumstances of January 6 have passed," id. ; (7) articulated a difference between mob participants that "assaulted police officers and broke through windows, doors, and barricades, and those who aided, conspired with, planned, or coordinated such actions" and those who "cheered on the violence or entered the Capitol after others cleared the way," id. at *22 (citing United States v. Simpkins , 826 F.2d 94, 96 (D.C. Cir. 1987)); and (8) directed that "[d]etention cannot be based on a finding that the defendant is unlikely to comply with conditions of release absent the requisite finding of dangerousness or risk of flight," id. at *20.
