2021-04-15 T 18:22:31	No Subject	HBO interviews me next week. This week I head up north to Shasta, South Lake Tahoe, Reno and more to interview for my upcoming series and simultaneously interview for the Save The Patriots org. We need to get the word out there for everyone to know. Sorry I've been MIA the last week, it's been a pain in the ass logging into GettingOut but I think I got it. Also, been working my ass off to get this RV, and upgrade my camera gear. I am totally down to make a huge movie with ya man. We have the talent and strength to let this part of history not be washed over with brainwash lies meant to divide. We can reverse the evil doings of the cabal. 2021-04-15 T 18:20:05	No Subject	An alleged rioter charged for his involvement in the U.S. Capitol breach earlier this year has argued jail guards have assaulted inmates kept at the Washington D.C. correctional center. "Myself and others involved in the Jan. 6 incident are scared for their lives, not from each other but from correctional officers," Ronald Sandlin said Tuesday as he appeared before a federal court in order to argue for his pretrial release, Politico reported. "I don't understand how this is remotely acceptable," he said. During the hearing, Sandlin alleged jail guards have used both physical violence and verbal abuse against multiple inmates, with at least one prisoner getting severely beaten by correctional officers to the point of blindness, a skull fracture, as well as a detached retina. The D.C. Correctional Treatment Facility is currently housing about 40 suspects accused of taking part in the Jan. 6 incident. A spokesperson for the facility, as well as the FBI, have said they are aware of the allegations made by Sandlin and have placed the case under federal investigation. 2021-03-30 T 10:44:43		I'm doing OK. ups and downs. I'm in a cell block with all Capitol people. I'm proud to call them my friends we stood up for what we believed in and sacrificed. I'm looking forward to being a free man again and hopping on my motorcycle and riding off into the sunset far away from people and their machinations. I've learned a lot about myself in here. Solitary confinement is very very intense. Reading books is the most stimulation I get and most of the time its just me in my head. I've learned to be OK just being and being OK with myself and my own thoughts and for that lesson I'm grateful because I certainly wouldn't have gotten that on my own. I'm writing a book on my journey and I hope to turn it into movie. I plan on having Leonardo DiCaprio play me :-). I have so many stories to tell. I got a cock marble in prison lol (google it haha) I'm at peace now and I've accepted that I'm here for reason...it may sound self serving but I truly believe I have a divine destiny to fulfill and I/we made history that day and the full implications of our actions his yet to be realized. My bond hearing is in 2 weeks and I expect it to be on the news because I will be making an explosive statement...I won't ruin the surprise. My charges are pretty serious including 2 assault charges so I expect them to make an example out of me and to be in prison for a few years. I've come to peace with my actions and consequences. Hope your attorney is able to talk some sense into the prosecution. Other than that I am doing pretty good...school rules my life these days which sucks but I definitely feel like I'm getting smarter. Vegas weather has been pretty nice I'm trying to enjoy it before the heat. Nice mustache you've got going! Hope you're reading some good books.
