

Honorable Judge Moss,

Jeff is a wonderful husband and he loves his country very much. He did not go to Washington on January 6 with plans to do anything wrong. He went because he believes that our right to vote is very important. He felt compelled to go because he wanted to support election integrity. I know this because he and I talked about why he wanted to go before he went. I asked him then what he thought would be the benefit of going and that is what he told me.

Unfortunately, Jeff allowed the emotions of the day and his curiosity to get the best of him, placing him where he shouldn't have been. He did not participate in any way with damaging the Capitol nor did he fight with the police. He quickly realized his mistake and left on his own.

Jeff has cooperated fully with this process and accepted responsibility for his actions that day.

Jeff is a kind and caring person. He is always willing to help anyone in need. He helps our elderly neighbors and our children whenever they need something. Additionally, since Jeff completed his presentence interview last month, I have developed some health issues and will likely be having surgery soon. I will need him to be able to assist me with getting to and from appointments and assist me after surgery.

I ask that you consider Jeff's character, his cooperation in this matter and my current situation when making your decision.

Thank you,

Carla Munge
